

EVENING HOURS

Bill Cunningham

The Progress Of Progress

Honoring work from the city to the Mideast.

Oct. 16: Casita Maria's dinner-dance at the Mandarin Oriental raised $650,000 for programs serving Hispanic communities in New York.

- 1. The Bob Hardwick Sound, against city lights.
- 2. ROBERT and ENCARNITA QUINLAN.
- 3. EMILIA FANJUL.
- 4. CARLOS PICÓN and CARMEN ANA UNANUE.

Oct. 17: The Washington Institute for Near East Policy had a dinner at the Pierre, raising $1.4 million. The event honored two men who embody the idea that scholarship and historical understanding are necessary in forming Mideast policy.

Oct. 17: Saks Fifth Avenue kicked off its 2007 Key to the Cure campaign with cocktails at the skating rink at Rockefeller Center. For the campaign, Saks donates part of its sales from the weekend to breast cancer charities.

6. A pink carpet in the center of the rink for the party.

7. CARRIE CLOUD, CARTER PEABODY, center, and STEPHEN I. SADOVE.

Oct. 17: Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts held its annual Great Performers awards dinner. The evening honored Blair Effron and raised $2.3 million.

8. BLAIR and CHERYL EFFRON.

9. LIZZIE and JONATHAN TISCH.

Oct. 16: The American Folk Art Museum's gala at the Roseland Ballroom drew 540 guests. The event raised $1.3 million. Joyce B. Cowin, Edgar Cullman Sr. and Richard D. Parsons were honored.

12. EDGAR CULLMAN SR. and LOUISE CULLMAN.

13. JOYCE B. COWIN, left, PHILIP BUCKNER and PATRICIA THOMPSON.

14. CYNTHIA NEELLEY, left; ARLYN GARDNER.

