

CINDY ADAMS

JUST before he split for the Ginzza, Mario Cuomo made an unscheduled pit stop at his daughter's Manhattan apartment building. Unmarried Madeline wasn't in.

His Excellency quizzed the staff: "What time does my daughter usually come home?"

Gulped the doorman: "Around 10 o'clock."

"Any guys with her?"

"No, sir."

Said our Governor-the-President-cum-Vice President: "Okay. Just make sure of that."

Boyohboyohboy, this kid's romantic future looks to be as rosy as this state's financial future.

A SPEAKER's bureau rep, just back from Bonn, Germany, said some of our stars make house calls if they're paid almost as much as our doctors. Example: Pavarotti will sing exclusively at your home for $187,000. How he picks that oddball sum, God knows. Maybe he counts in lire. If he's just a guest, no singing, there's a $68,000 mark-down. If you feed him, he probably takes off another 30 bucks. Currently for sale is Kim Basinger at $85 thou or Steffi Graf for a discount $76 thou. Carfare's extra.

AT LAST summer's Bayreuth Festival, conductor James Levine got zonked by flowers tossed during the "Parsifal" curtain call. He bitched. Result? New rules. Henceforth onward flowers may not be hurled at performers or conductors whilst they take their bows. Tis verboten. Especially if in a vase.

THE "Circus of the Stars" taped in L. A. at the Raleigh Studios on Melrose Avenue. Celebs from Sherman Hemsley to Dixie Carter had identical Winnebagos with identical kitchens, johns, decor, food in the fridge, etc. Mouths on the set say Carter surveyed hers and pronounced it "not good enough for a superstar" plus "You have 15 minutes" to do better. They rented her a suite of offices.

KEITH CARRADINE has devoted fans. One shipped him 100 chocolate brownies backstage at "The Will Rogers Follies" in the shape of guitars and cowboy hats ... Luke Perry ("Dylan" on "Beverly Hills 90210") also has devoted fans. At a shopping-mall appearance, 5,000 people swarmed ... jiggled out inside a ...

BOB HARDWICK, bandleader and composer, was in Moscow during Coup Week, scoring a coming film on Russian espionage. For background he toured dreaded Petrovka, HQ of the Moscow Militia. His guide indicated a Communist Party room where, that week, police had been made to turn in their Commie membership cards. The room will stay locked.

Hardwick, who played a concert in a former palace of Czar Nicholas I, says: "The Muscovites were cautiously optimistic but skeptical. One told me: 'You can't imagine what it was like to live, even for one week, as a Russian citizen.'"
